Farm Bureau; and Clare McGhan, organization director of the California Farm Bureau Federation. Plaques were for second largest county membership in California in 1960, second largest number of new members, greatest increase in total members, and the securing of more members than the Federation quota. The Tulare County Farm Bureau now has 4,557 members and is shooting for 4,658 for 1960-61. In the present membership drive a total of 2,968 individuals have already been signed up, including 96 new members. Centers represented at the Thursday meeting, which featured a panel discussion on Farm Bureau servies, in addition to planning by Centers for membership campaign, were: Burton, Ducor, Lindsay, Pixley, Porterville, Prairie Center, Springville, Terra Bella, and Woodville.

SPORTSMEN SURVEY SHOWS MONACHE DEER HERD DOING WELL ON WINTER RANGE

PORTERVILLE, Dec. 15 — Monache deer herd appears to be doing well on its winter range north of Walker pass, although survival of fawns seems to be light, according to a report by a group of Southern Tulare County Sportsmen's association members who spent Friday and Saturday riding over and inspecting the range.

On their fourth annual trip, members of the party report: 1. Although only 49 deer were actually seen, signs indicate more deer than usual on the winter range. 2. Deer sighted were in good shape, but only one fawn was seen, indicating a low fawn

This "slum area" just south of the Tule river on the east side of Main street, is being purchased by a southern California firm, headed by Alex Katz, of Resida; plan is to demolish the old buildings, clean up the area, and possibly develop it as commercial property. Photo at right is typical of the area back of the Main street buildings, (if it looks familiar, better not admit it) where a number of small houses have been built, but where there is now a growing accumulation of trash and junk. BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS — THE NEED IS STILL GREAT

Tuberculosis is not a disease of the past.

Actually, more than 100 new cases per year are found in Tulare county, and, say doctors, for every new case discovered, isolated, and treated, it is likely that a minimum of 20 new cases are prevented.

This means that in Tulare county there is still a job to do in connection with tuberculosis, and the organization doing the two-fold job of seeking out new cases and making funds available for research, is the Tulare County Tuberculosis and Health association.

This association annual finances itself through the sale of Christmas Seals, which you have no doubt received already in the mail, or will soon receive.

We suggest that you buy and use these seals as your contribution to a worthwhile and deserving charitable cause.

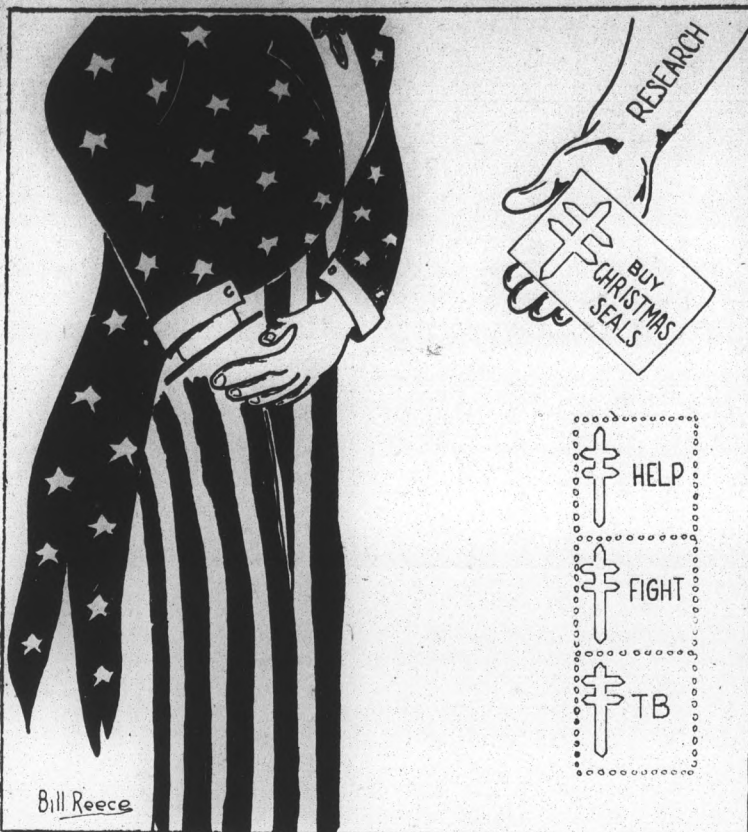

Eighty-six per cent of the money that you send in for Christmas Seals is used in local projects to detect new carriers of tuberculosis. Fourteen per cent of funds collected in Tulare county goes to state and national agencies for medical research.

Stary Gange, of Visalia, who is the 1960 Christmas Seal Sale chairman, reports that $24,185 was collected last year to finance the TB association program in Tulare county; this year, at this point, contributions are running behind last year.

We present these facts simply as a reminder so that during the rush of the Christmas season you will not forget the seal program that this county has supported for so many years.

If research and treatment methods continue to progress, there may come a time when we can forget about Christmas Seals. But that time is not here yet. So...

Buy Christmas Seals. We can't afford not to.

COUNCIL IS ABOUT READY TO RAISE GARBAGE RATES

Usually, when a public agency is contemplating any kind of rate increase, there is a certain amount of hue and cry from various people involved.

For several weeks the Porterville city council has been considering an increase in garbage and refuse collection rates in the city of Porterville; the question has been aired several times in council meetings; press and radio have covered the subject quite well; the council, by intent, has moved slowly on this matter to provide an opportunity for people of Porterville to consider the question, but, as yet there has been virtually no comment one way or the other on the proposed rate increase.

In order to again bring this matter to public attention, we herewith present, in simplified chart form, just what the proposed rate change will do in relation to current garbage collection rates.

Mid-November Farm Prices Were Steady To Higher

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 15—Prices received by California farmers in mid-November were steady to higher than a month earlier, according to the California Crop and Livestock Reporting service. Only potato, alfalfa seed, cotton, hog, and chicken prices were below the level of a month ago. There was no change in the average price received for flaxseed, rice, cottonseed, wool, and milk fat in cream.

Compared with a year ago, average prices received by California farmers show a mixed trend. Potatoes, cottonseed, oranges, lemons, hogs, and eggs were up substantially while hay, calves, and wool were considerably lower than a year ago. Slightly higher prices were recorded for wheat, rice, beans, milk, chickens and turkeys. On the other hand, corn, oats, barley, grain sorghums, alfalfa seed, beef cattle, lambs, and milk fat in cream were lower than a year earlier.

Mid-November prices were much lower than the 1954-58 average for all grains except oats. Alfalfa hay, cotton lint, cottonseed, hogs, lambs, wool, and chickens were also below average. Prices received for potatoes, dry beans, oranges, lemons, beef cattle, calves, and milk cows, were substantially above average.

Premium books, either full or partially full, and for every type of premium stamps, are being accepted at the Good Shepherd home, locally. The bus will be used to transport the retarded children of the home in their activities program.

yields substantially in many grain growing areas of California with soil nutrient deficiencies.

This is proven by the results of a five-year study of the nutrient deficiencies of grainlands and their responses to fertilization conducted by the University of California's Agricultural Extension Service and Department of Agronomy.

The project was headed by William E. Martin, extension soils specialist, and Duane S. Mikkelsen, associate professor of agronomy.

Under their supervision, a total of 221 coordinated field tests were carried out in 38 counties, including Tulare, on farms selected by farm advisors as typical of the grain producing areas of the counties.

Of these tests, 149 were with barley, 62 with wheat, and 10 with oats.

Forty-five were on irrigated fields, while 176 were on lands dependent on natural rainfall.

Martin and Mikkelsen reported that yields were improved in 74 per cent, while 26 per cent showed no benefit from fertilization.

U.S. Savings Bond Holdings At Record High

VISALIA, Dec. 15 — "Holdings of U.S. Savings Bonds have risen above the 43-billion-dollar mark for the first time in the bond program's history," Tulare County Bond Chairman M. W. Dula reports.

"This is $13 billion more than the $30 billion in Savings Bonds held by Americans at the end of world war 11. At the same time, November sales of $326 million carried the national 1960 total above $4 billion in sales for the year," Dula said.

About a third of the fields responded to applications of nitrogen alone, but showed no benefit from phosphorus.

A sixth, or 16 per cent of the plots responded to phosphorus alone with no effect from nitrogen.

Twenty-six per cent needed both nitrogen and phosphorus for maximum yield.

We Only Heard

BY BILL RODGERS

AS WE get ready to cast the 14th congressional district electoral college vote in Sacramento next Monday, political winds continue to blow out of the South, and there is a breeze or two in California.

ACTUALLY THE electors of the electoral college have no legal obligation to vote for anyone; the constitution of the United States sets up the college without commitment to any candidate or political party.

THIS FACT, coupled with the closeness of the national election, plus talk of reserving the results in a couple of key states where vote fraud is being investigated, plus some wide open electoral college votes in the southern states has brought a bit of good old fashioned politician' out of the south — politician' aimed not at putting Mr. Nixon in office over Mr. Kennedy, but, for the most part, aimed at throwing them both out.

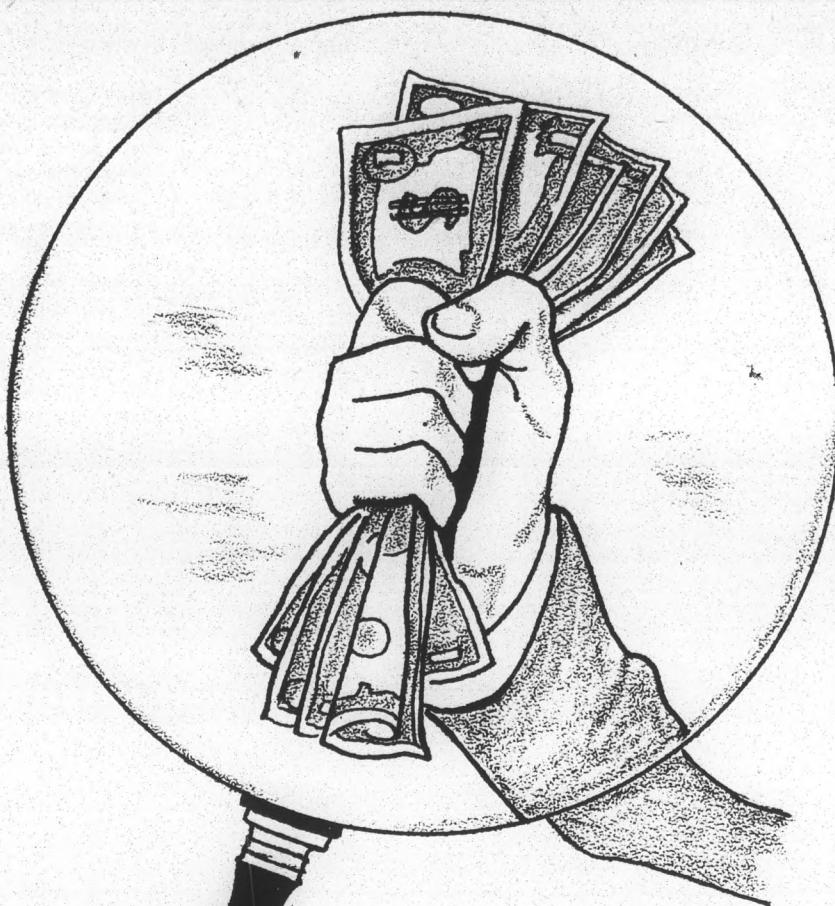

FOR INSTANCE, we have received the three plans of R. Lea Harris, an attorney in Montgomery, Alabama. Mr. Harris wanted a meeting of presidential electors from 11 southern states, at which Jack Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson would appear. Harris' Plan A consisted of letting southern states electors go along with Mr. Kennedy, provided he changed his stand on a couple of things, namely foreign aid to communist countries, and states rights. Plan B assumed that Mr. Kennedy might not change his stand, in which case the southern states' electoral college vote would go to Mr. Johnson for president and Mr. Kennedy for vice president. Plan C assumed that neither Mr. Kennedy nor Mr. Johnson will be satisfactory, in which case the electoral college picks a president and vice president of the United States from a list of 12 southern states governors and senators . . . With the greatest display of North-South unity since the end of the Civil War, northern states' electors are invited to join in.

THEN DOWN in Tyler, Texas there is another plan, coupled with extensive political analysis. From this source we learn that a recount of votes in Cook county, Illinois, might reverse that state's electoral college votes from Mr. Kennedy to Mr. Nixon; Louisiana may well release its electors from any state-level political obligation, and the free electors of Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi are to be reckoned with, all of which adds up to less than a majority vote in the electoral college for both Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Nixon, in which case the president of the United States would be elected in the House of Representatives, making Mr. Kennedy a shoo-in. In order to prevent this, members of the electoral college are urged to vote for Allan Shivers, ex-governor of the State of Texas, for president, and Senator Barry Goldwater, of Arizona, for vice president. "This would be the greatest thing that has ever happened to this wonderful country of ours," says the gentleman from Tyler, Texas.

OUT OF Oklahoma comes word by telegram that "sufficient Democrat electors are available to defeat labor socialist nominee. (For president) Would you consider voting for conservative coalition ticket as Byrd and Goldwater, or wire me reasonable nominee."

BUT, AS might be expected, the real blast originated in sunny California from the General

County Farm Bureau Board Meets Tonight

VISALIA, Dec. 15 — Directors of the Tulare County Farm Bureau will meet tonight, 7 p.m., at the Farm Bureau Assembly hall in Visalia, with regular directors' meeting to be preceded by dinner. Presiding will be President Ed. Cook, of Success Valley.

VISALIA, Dec. 15 — Farm Advisor Dick Schade spoke on "Irrigation, Water Penetration, and Sprinkler Systems" at a meeting of the citrus section of the Tulare County Farm Bureau held Monday evening at the Farm Bureau Assembly hall in Visalia.

YOUR LEGISLATOR AT WORK!

Senator
J. Howard Williams
32nd District
California State Legislature

More millions for mental health is a matter which will concern both us legislators and California taxpayers at our coming session. Proposals for an expanded program estimated to cost $17 million annually were submitted to a subcommittee of the Assembly ways and means group at its recent meeting in San Francisco.

Using "conservation of human resources" as the basis for its plea, the state mental health association urged that the state supported system of local mental health clinics be expanded and improved until it can service all parts of the state. It was also suggested that a law be passed requiring all county jails to provide mental health care for inmates.

A spokesman for trustees of the state mental hospitals strongly recommended that salaries be upped for psychiatric technicians and trainees. The subcommittee was informed that over the most recent three year period, 6,900 out of 10,000 such hospital employees had quit their jobs. It was pointed out that a typist can demand and get from $325 to $375 per month, so it is almost impossible to recruit qualified hospital employees at $268 per month. One hospital reportedly hires cotton pickers for such positions, who promptly take off for the fields when cotton season opens. A representative of the state personnel board said a five percent raise is being recommended for some of these positions, but not for the trainee class.

State mental hospitals came in for a considerable share of sharp criticism, but were defended by spokesmen for the mental hygiene department. One institution, much in the headlines because of frequent patient escapes, has set up every safeguard against more "mass escapes", it was said. Attacks on the use of tranquilizers on patients were replied to with the statement that their use is still experimental and results, while encouraging so far, are not yet conclusive.

Alleged use of narcotics by hospital personnel, and immoral relationships between personnel and patients, were also reported as coming from good authority. Spokesmen for the department said investigation had developed no foundation for such charges, but the committee was told that further inquiry into them might be asked.

In connection with the proposals for expanded programs, the group was cautioned that we legislators will be confronted with demands for new services which will cost many millions of dollars. If many such requests are granted, it might be again necessary to raise taxes by another $200 million per year.

A taxpayer spokesman added his voice to this warning note. Various groups which are sponsoring their own special interest proposals will endeavor to convince the Legislature that they should be passed, he said. He estimated the cost of all such new service demands at more than $300 million per year.

Our California mental health program is regarded as one of the best and most progressive in the Nation. It has a record for keeping abreast of new developments in treatment, and has expanded as required to meet the needs of our soaring population. As legislators, it will be our hope and intention to keep it at that level of quality. But we must still keep in mind the needs for support of all the multifarious functions of state government, everything from agriculture through education to veterans affairs.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT

Morning Sickness

• Goat's Milk

Q. I had dreadful morning nausea with my first child. Is there anything new about this? I am pregnant again.

A. The basic principles of management of nausea and vomiting in early pregnancy have changed very little in recent years. Doctors prescribe mild sedatives, encourage a diet rich in carbohydrates and low in fats, and suggest taking frequent small, dry, meals. Fluids should be taken separately. Certain drugs are also employed, not always with success.

Q. Has goat's milk any advantages over cow's milk?

A. In cases of allergy to cow's milk, goat's milk may be used to advantage.

Control Nematodes, Make Trees and Vines Produce a Profit

Nematodes destroy a plant's ability to produce at top efficiency. When trees and vines are stunted, wilted and appear half grown, check the root system. If you find small, bead-like knots, you have a nematode problem. Use Fumazone® or Nemagon® to control these parasites. They can be injected as a liquid, applied as granules or in irrigation water. Get a profit out of your water and fertilizer.

For control of nematodes prior to planting, Niagara has Telone®, DD®, Vidden D and EDB. Here are four nematocides that will perk up "tired soil" and brighten your profit picture. A liquid, they are applied by injection.

Control nematodes in citrus, figs, grapes, peaches, plums, nectarines and English walnuts with nematocides from Niagara. Your local Niagara Field Representative will help you plan for profit. Give him a call today at SU 4-6795.

HARP ESCAPES BERMUDA JUNGLE IN TIME FOR 49ER BALL GAME

Back in the days when we were cliff dwelling in a second story apartment on J Street in Sacramento we often day-dreamed about the ~~yard~~ we would have when we had a home of our own. In our mind's eye the sight was something like a picture from Better Homes and Gardens. We saw ourselves, dressed in conservative tweeds, with a delicate spade in hand as we eliminated a malignant weed that had dared to poke his head up in our orchid bed. All about us a riot of color bloomed eternally, with an occasional probe from our scalpel-like spade destroying intruding weeds.

The garden we grew in our day-dreams was an obedient one. We had only to cast the seed of some exotic plant upon the ground and it took root and flourished. When the autumn came the leaves fluttered to the ground in neat piles and the rake was nonexistent. We enjoyed a good life as a gentleman-gardener.

Last Saturday morning we faced harsh, grim, unrelenting reality. One look at our front yard revealed to us that leaves do not fall in neat piles, and flowers do not bloom eternally. A whole autumn's worth of leaves lay strewn about our yard, both in front of the house and in back. And there was an ugly rumor that neighbors were passing a petition.

We stood there in the cold, foggy dew of Saturday morning. Our conservative tweeds were faded blue trousers and a torn football jersey, and our scalpel-like spade was a 79c bamboo rake. Our picture from Better Homes and Gardens had become something from The Grapes of Wrath. The greenish-brown Bermuda grass ensnared our ankles and grasped at our knees. It hummed busily to itself. The sound of working Bermuda grass is not unlike that of a sea shell placed close to the ear.

We have long since ceased open hostility with Bermuda grass. We have abandoned the yard and retreated to the house. We seek only to defend our home from the clutch of this treacherous enemy. At this very moment it is clawing at the concrete foundation of the house.

During the past election campaign the candidates for President failed to touch upon the Bermuda grass issue. They claimed that America's greatest enemies were Russia, Red China, and economic depression or inflation. No one mentioned Bermuda grass. A good, clear Bermuda grass policy could put a man in the White House. Bermuda grass is the enemy within. Quietly, almost without notice it spreads, moves, engulfs.

When working in the yard in the midst of the Bermuda we find that it is a good idea to attach a length of rope to a stout tree and tie the other end about one's waist. This insures one against sudden disappearance into the bottomless plant. We also tell the wife that if we aren't back in a half hour to send a searching party after us.

The fallen leaves were overcome Saturday morning and placed in two neat, huge piles. The Bermuda grass pushed a wiry tenacle across the sidewalk, we cast our rake aside and fled into the house. Anyway, it was time for the 49'er football game on TV.

California had more licensed fishermen in 1959 than any other state — 1,475,977.

Bill Reece Is Speaker At Pleasant View 4-H

PLEASANT VIEW, Dec. 15 — Bill Reece, of The Farm Tribune staff, was the principal speaker at a recent meeting of the Pleasant View 4-H club, explaining points to look for in picking project animals, and also gave pointers on what fair judges look for in the show ring.

In other business the club voted to invite members of the Tule River Indian Reservation 4-H club for a Christmas party the evening of December 22, at 7 o'clock, after Michael Ragen had reported on a visit of Pleasant View club members to the reservation club.

President Dennis Dunbar presented Robert Santry with a 4-H jacket as an award for having

The other day we noticed an ad suggesting you get your Christmas presents this year "without any money." This didn't startle us because we've been doing that for years. Never knew there was another way. Of course this article indicated you should use your trading stamps. We would expect we don't have that many — not of one kind anyway. We're thinking of starting a trading stamp store to exchange trading stamps for other trading stamps—Two greens for a blue or something.

If you're in need of something to brighten your Christmas table we have several colorful flowers such as Poinsettias, Azaleas, and Cyclamen. They'll never replace egg-nog for providing Christmas cheer but they do add to the festive air. They can later be planted outside so that all is not lost.

We would also like to mention long-lasting presents such as Pot Stands for your friends whose pots are ungracefully supported by old orange boxes or precariously perched on narrow window sills. These stands come with or without pots and in sizes holding one pot or a dozen.

Redwood Containers might be the answer to someone's Christmas list — or maybe one of the new Metal Gadgets to roll large pots or tubs around. These also make a fine toy commonly referred to as a "go devil". Excellent for amusing the grandchildren during the holidays.

For other gift ideas avoid the crowds and browse around on "E" Street north of Olive. We'll wrap it, deliver it, or plant it.

Holdridge Minute Men, with the general labeling the November 8 election as a "political Pearl Harbor", and urging indictment of Candidates Nixon and Kennedy for sedition and treason. The General spends four printed pages listing his charges, and concludes by notifying members of the electoral college that if they vote for either Mr. Nixon or Mr. Kennedy, they become "an accessory after these crimes", (Kennedy's and Nixon's crimes) and ditto for the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court if he swears in either of them. Knowing that presidential electors and the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court are not about to become accessories to sedition and treason, the electoral college can only declare the November 8 election null and void and resolve the issue through a plebiscite of all voters.

WELL, THERE'S probably no country in the universe where the citizens can have their silly season right along with their most serious season. And when the electoral college votes are officially counted in Washington, D. C. during a joint session of the House and Senate on January 6, 1961, we predict that electors from those states that carried for Mr. Kennedy will vote for Mr. Kennedy, and electors from those states that carried for Mr. Nixon will vote for Mr. Nixon, in which case — notwithstanding the communications above breifed — Mr. Kennedy will be the next president of the United States.

GARBAGE CONTAINERS

Type and Specifications

No change in present accepted practices, however, specifications are spelled out more completely.

These are the points of change covered in the proposed resolution; hauling of boxed oranges from packing houses, now charged at a rate of six cents per box, is not mentioned in the present form of the proposed rate change.

Still being turned over in the minds of councilmen are other related items: Should there be a per-unit rate reduction for apartments and multiple dwellings where several family units are served with one stop of the garbage truck? Should a cubic foot basic charge be included to cover businesses that have a large volume of light, bulky material such as boxes and packing cases? Should it be spelled out that in collection of prunings and heavy yard refuse the per hour cost of truck and labor time be prorated, if refuse from more than one dwelling is picked up in a single truck load?

It is possible that the city council will adopt the increased garbage rate collection charge at the next meeting. Anyone who desires to be heard — and this we repeat — should come forward before the change is made, not afterwards.

Experimental plantings of Barbary partridges have been made in Fresno and Calaveras counties by the state department of fish and game.

beginning to grow on the range; 5. For some unaccountable reason, deer were not nearly as wild as in previous years.

During the two days of riding, and two nights of camping out in weather that got down to around 16 degrees, the party covered the area on horseback from Sundown valley, near Walker pass, to within about six miles of Monache meadow. Weather was clear during the trip, and party members state that if time had permitted, they could have easily ridden as far north as Siberian pass.

The annual sportsmen's trip is made to check winter deer range conditions and to also check conditions of the Monache herd that, during the summer moves as far north as the Sequoia National park along the east side of Kern river.

At a meeting of directors of the Tulare County Sportsmen's association tomorrow night, Friday, 8 o'clock, at the Porterville Elks' lodge, a full report on the survey will be given.
